DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 01 August 2005 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1, 4, and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rodgers et al. (US 6,362,737)(hereinafter referred to as 'Rodgers').

Art Unit: 2876 -

Rodgers teaches a carrier (3700) serving as an accessed object comprising a series of capacitor (3710 and 3714) serving as a semiconductor device and antenna coils (3708 and 3716) bent to extend two surfaces of the carrier, the antenna coils are located in the vicinity of the a corner portion, the carrier is a casing and the antenna coils are provided inside of the carrier as shown in figure 37 (see figs. 1, and 37; col. 55, lines 9-48).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 5. Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rodgers in view of Smithgall (US 6,027,027).

The teachings of Rodgers have been discussed above.

In addition to the teachings of Rodgers as discussed above, he also teaches that the a series of capacitors are located away from the bent portion of the antenna wherein the antenna is bent at a right angle (see fig. 37).

However, Rodgers fails to particularly teach or fairly suggest that the antenna coils are formed on a flexible sheet.

Art Unit: 2876

Smithgall teaches a RFID tag comprising an antenna (301) and an integrated circuit (410) wherein the antenna and the integrated circuit are attached to paper substrate (420) (see fig. 4; col. 2, line 44-col. 5, line 15).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teachings of Smithgall to the teachings of Rodgers in order to provide flexibility by attaching the circuit and antenna onto the paper substrate wherein the paper substrate are well known in the art at the time the invention for bending at certain angle such as right angle without breaking the substrate and/or antenna for providing wireless communication using the antenna therewith.

6. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rodgers in view of Sanders (US 6,276,523, record).

The teachings of Rodgers have been discussed above.

Although, Rodgers teaches the carrier having antennas thereon, he fails to particularly teach or fairly suggest that the container is a translucent and the container is an information recording medium.

However, Sanders teaches a compact disc container can be constructed of opaque plastic materials for holding information recording medium such as a compact disc (see Figs. 1a and 1b; col. 10, lines 25-38).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teachings of Sanders to the teachings of Rodgers in order to provide convenience to user(s) wherein user(s) can verify the contents of the container without physically opening the container in which the container is holding the information recording medium such as a compact disc.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

In response to applicant's argument that "...fails to teach or disclose or otherwise motivate one of ordinary skill in the art to arrive at an antenna coil connected to a semiconductor device....." (see page 5, line 17+), the Examiner respectfully provide Rodgers reference wherein Rodgers reference teaches that the carrier having loop antennas that are extending two different direction as discussed in paragraph 3 above.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Hatano et al. (US 6,069,564) discloses multi-directional RFID antenna.
